FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

News Release
Healthcare Laundry Accreditation Council

HLAC's Newly Revised Accreditation Standards Awarded AORN Seal of Recognition™

PLAINFIELD, IL - April 6, 2015 - The Association of periOperative Registered Nurses (AORN) has awarded its AORN Seal of Recognition™ to the newly revised Healthcare Laundry Accreditation Council (HLAC) standards document covering the complete textile processing cycle for use in healthcare facilities. This is the second consecutive year that a version of the HLAC standards document has been recognized by AORN.

The updated document, "Accreditation Standards for Processing Reusable Textiles for Use in Healthcare Facilities - 2016 Edition," goes into effect Jan. 1, 2016, and comes after a lengthy and thorough review by HLAC's board of directors and public comment from professionals who serve the healthcare industry or use or process healthcare textiles, according to HLAC board president Gregory Gicewicz.

"What's especially gratifying is that our standards met AORN's standards as submitted, without any changes," Gicewicz said. "We believe much of this has to do with the fact that, like AORN's, our standards are processed-based and backed by data."

The AORN Seal of Recognition confirms that the content of the HLAC document, the HLAC Accreditation Standards, has undergone thorough review by AORN and meets the guidelines of the "AORN Perioperative Standards and Recommended Practices." While not an endorsement, the Seal of Recognition is confirmation that HLAC's accreditation standards as presented in the document have met AORN standards of excellence in safe patient care.

The HLAC Accreditation Standards are established as the minimum acceptable practice for the preparation of hygienically clean, reusable healthcare textiles for patient care, implemented and executed by accredited laundry facilities processing reusable healthcare textiles. The document covers the complete textile processing cycle: from handling and transporting to laundering and finishing to customer service. Special attention has been directed to laundry processes directly related to patient safety and OSHA required practices, including Bloodborne Pathogen Exposure Control Standards.

"The AORN Seal of Recognition helps to reinforce the credibility and quality of our standards," said Gicewicz. "For current HLAC-accredited customers, this seal provides them with instant peace of mind that they've aligned themselves with an organization that has met AORN's stringent standards for excellence in safe patient care. This is a message worth communicating at many levels - to hospital administrators, infection preventionists, nurses, environmental services professionals and, of course, to patients and their families."

About HLAC

The Healthcare Laundry Accreditation Council (HLAC) is a nonprofit organization formed for the purpose of inspecting and accrediting laundries processing healthcare textiles for hospitals, nursing homes and other healthcare facilities. For more information, www.hlacnet.org, on Twitter @NewsHlac.
About AORN

AORN is a non-profit membership association that represents the interests of more than 160,000 perioperative nurses by providing nursing education, standards, and clinical practice resources to enable optimal outcomes for patients undergoing operative and other invasive procedures. For more information, visit http://www.aorn.org/.

Disclaimer: The AORN Seal of Recognition has been awarded to the HLAC Accreditation Standards for Processing Reusable Textiles for Use in Healthcare Facilities, 2016 Edition and does not imply that AORN approves or endorses any product or service mentioned in any presentation, format or content. The AORN Recognition program is separate from the AORN, ANCC Accredited Provider Unit and therefore does not include any CE credit for programs.

Information: Ken Swoyer 847-424-1256
kswoyer@hlacnet.org
www.hlacnet.org

© Copyright 2015 HLAC. All rights reserved.